HYDROGRAPHIC NOTICE.

[No. 15.]

West Coast of North America.

NOTICE No. 9.

THE following information has been received from Commander K. H. A. Mainwaring, R. N., H. M. S. Cameleon, 1874.*

MARNATA, a new Mexican port, in lat.  $18^{\circ} 27' N.$ , long.  $103^{\circ} 33' W.$  (approximate), is situated on the north side of a creek communicating with a large lagoon and the sea. The village consists of the custom house (a hut made of palm leaves) and four or five Indian huts.

The anchorage is bad, being exposed to all winds from seaward, except N. W., and the shelter from that quarter is indifferent; the bottom is loose sand. Coasters anchor in  $3\frac{1}{2}$  fathoms, about a cable from the shore.

Food is scarce, and water bad. The locality is unhealthy. Communication with the interior is by bridle paths only; the nearest town of importance is Colima, 150 miles distant. Brazil wood is shipped during the fine season occasionally.

Gold diggings exist on the river Ostula, about 15 miles northward of Marnata, and silver mines near Cualcoman, a town situated 120 miles in the interior, and containing about 1,500 inhabitants.

The following information has been derived from a report by Commander S. Long, H. M. S. Fantome, 1875.†

TENACATITA BAY affords a sheltered anchorage off the village, situated on the east side of the bay, during the wet season, and in West bay during the dry season. Tamarinda bay on the east side also affords a secure anchorage, but there is more swell than off the village.

Tenacatita bay is considered preferable to Manzanilla as an anchorage; and is said to be more healthy. It is easy of access, and appears free from hidden dangers, with the exception of the rock situated off Brothers points, on which rock no breakers were visible at a mile distant, although a heavy swell was rolling in at the time. The soundings are regular, and the rocks appear steep-to.

After passing the line Brothers point and Tenacatita head, do not approach the west shore within a mile, nor the east shore within a quarter of a mile.

If bound to West bay, pass eastward and northward of Bird Islet, which is 10 feet high, and has 3 fathoms water close to.

A good berth off Tenacatita village is in 10 fathoms, with the village open northward of the outer rock off Breakwater point and Flat rock (3 feet high, and having 3 fathoms close to) showing a little inside Tenacatita head. From the berth recommended the water shoals regularly towards the shore, and a vessel loading may, if desired, anchor closer in in 7 fathoms.

Supplies—Water may be procured either near the village or in Tamarinda bay. Fire-wood is abundant. Numerous cattle were seen in the vicinity of the bay.

Coquita nut shells are abundant.

GULF OF CALIFORNIA—Ceralbo Island.—A rock (Montana rock) having 4 feet on it at low water has been found to be three-quarter of a mile S. E.  $\frac{1}{2}$  S., from the south-east point of Ceralbo island. There is a depth of 6 or 8 fathoms close to the southward of the rock, and 5 fathoms between it and the shore.‡

The following information has been derived from notices to mariners issued by the Superintendent of the United States Coast Survey, Washington, 1875.§

(Variation in 1876.)

San Luis Obispo bay, Chetko cove and Macks
15½° Easterly. shelter, 19° Easterly.

SAN LUIS OBISPO BAY.—Off point San Luis a ledge of rocks with 18 feet on its shoalest part, and 14 to 17 fathoms within a quarter of a mile has been discovered; the sea seldom breaks on it, even in bad weather. From the ledge Pecho house (the only house visible west of point San Luis) bears N. N. W.  $\frac{3}{4}$  W. 2 and one-tenth miles, the shanty on Whaler island N. E.  $\frac{1}{4}$  E. 1 and six-tenths of a mile.

Half a mile N. W.  $\frac{1}{4}$  N. from this ledge is another on which there are detached heads with 18 to 24 feet water; the sea breaks on the ledge in bad weather. Neither of the ledges is marked by kelp.

To clear these dangers keep Sea Lion rock (between point Bouchon and Point San Luis) its width open from the farthest point of land to the westward until the nearest rocky bluff east of Avila opens eastward of Whaler island.

A sunken rock, with 14 feet water and marked by a small patch of kelp, has also been discovered. From this rock the shanty on Whaler island bears W. by S.  $\frac{1}{8}$  S., distant 1 and three-tenth miles, and the end of the People's wharf at Avila N. N. W.  $\frac{3}{4}$  W. 1 and one-tenth miles. To clear the rock keep Pecho rock open of point San Luis until within half a mile of the reef off point San Luis, when the People's wharf at Avila will bear North.

CHETKO COVE.—A shoal, with 12 feet water on it, rocky bottom, and showing at some seasons a little kelp, has been discovered near Chetko Cove which is close to the boundary line of California and Oregon in lat.  $42^{\circ} N.$

The shoal lies  $1\frac{1}{4}$  miles from the shore, with the eastern end of Prince island bearing S. E.  $\frac{1}{4}$  S., Rocky Butte, N. by W.  $\frac{3}{4}$  W., and the western side of Goat island, N. W. by W.  $\frac{1}{4}$  W.¶

The shoal is a danger to vessels passing close in shore and to such vessels the course lies to the westward of a line joining the west ends of Prince and Goat Islands, until Chetko river bears N. by W.  $\frac{1}{2}$  W., when the course may be altered to the northward for Chetko river; vessels bound to the northward may pass half a mile west of Goat Island.

There is anchorage off Chetko river in  $6\frac{1}{2}$  fathoms with Bar rock and Miller's house in line N. by W.

Prince island lies close to the mouth of Smith river and Goat island about 3 miles north of Chetko cove; both are large and prominent. Rocky Butte is the largest and highest of two or three buttes to be seen on the plateau, between Windchuck and Chetko rivers.

TIDES.—It is high water full and change at Chetko cove 11h.; tides rise 4 feet.

MACK SHELTER (lat.  $42^{\circ} 14' 30'' N.$ , long.  $124^{\circ} 24' 30'' W.$ ) is 14 miles to the northward of Chetko cove, and is distinguishable upon almost any approach, by Mack reef, lying off Mack point. This reef consists of a line of rocks above water, extending in a N. W. by N and S. E. by S. direction, and nearly joining the shore at Crooks point; the highest, called Mack Arch, 228 feet high, being at the Southern extremity and unmistakable from the large opening through it.

Between Mack reef and the shore, with Mack Arch bearing S. by E.  $\frac{1}{4}$  E., and Mack point N. N. E.  $\frac{1}{2}$  E., there is good anchorage in  $6\frac{1}{2}$  fathoms water, sandy bottom. In this berth, which should be entered from the southward, the reef is 300 to 400 yards distant. Northward of this anchorage is an inner anchorage, separated from the outer by a thick belt of kelp, which extends from the beach to the reef, but through which there is a clear channel. Bring the highest point of Mack Arch to bear S.  $\frac{3}{4}$  E., and steer N.  $\frac{3}{4}$  W.; this will lead through the channel in from  $3\frac{1}{2}$  and 4 fathoms water, and avoid a sunken rock with only 2 feet at low water, which lies at the edge of the kelp on the eastern side. From the northern or inner end of the channel, the course should be altered to the westward, and good anchorage may be had just inside the kelp, in from 4 to 5 fathoms water, sandy bottom—Mack point bearing E.  $\frac{3}{4}$  N. and Mack Arch S. by E.  $\frac{1}{2}$  E.

Between the rocks which form Mack reef there are passages leading to the inner and outer anchorages, and apparently free from danger; but it is recommended that they should not be used until more closely examined.

Wood and water can be obtained at Mack shelter, but no other supplies.

TIDES.—It is high water full and change at Mack Shelter 11h. 55m.; tides rise  $3\frac{1}{2}$  feet.
